MOLOTOV SEES HOPE FOR PACT WITH GERMANY

States Belief Treaty Can Be Made Despite Big 4 Disagreements.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 19 — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told the council of foreign ministers tonight that after hearing the differing views of the United States, Britain and France he still believed agreement possible in Moscow among the four powers on the critical German economic program.

Molotov said it did not follow from the disputes which thus far have broken out here that the four powers would be unable to find a common point of view on such issues as the level of German industry, a balance import-export program and freedom of movement in Germany, as well as on similar key matters.

Molotov spoke after Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain, in a studied commentary on the Soviet program for Germany, rejected Russian reparations demands and said it was Britain's policy not to agree to any dollar valuations on reparations. Molotov has put forward a Soviet claim for $10,000,000,000 in reparations from post-war Germany.

Bevin Quotes Stalin

Bevin said—for the first time—that Prime Minister Stalin himself had urged and requested the Western Allies to agree that reparations should come from capital goods and particularly factories in the western zones.

The British minister said that when he and the others agreed to this, he thought that the question of reparations was finished and there would be no demands for reparations from current production such as have now been put forward by Molotov, who has asked that part of the payment to Russia be from current production.

Top American officials predicted today unless the council of foreign ministers finds — and agrees upon—some overall solution for Germany's current problems there will be no solution at all.

These informants said the council meetings had reached a point at which it was apparent that great difficulties would be encountered in getting to such an overall solution and added the situation in Germany now is so badly split up that piecemeal settlements seemed impossible.

Unless Russia is willing to go along with some sort of sweeping program to wipe out all zonal boundaries and organize German life on a national basis, they continued, the Moscow conference seemed doomed to fail.

TRUMAN RETURNS TO DESK AFTER HOLIDAY

By The Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla., March 19—Tanned by sun and wind and relaxed after a week's rest, President Truman returns to Washington today to tackle anew the problems of an ever-shifting international scene.

With the Moscow government still officially silent on his call for American financial and economic support of Greece and Turkey in their resistance to Communism, the President will fly back to the White House to look over developments at first hand.

His special plane is due to leave at 2 p. m.

Feeling tired and under instructions from his physician to take a brief rest, Mr. Truman flew here from Washington Wednesday immediately after asking congress to authorize spending up to $400,000,000 to aid Greece and Turkey to stem the onward march of Communism.

There was no comment from the President on yesterday's demand by Senator Tydings (D-Md) for an immediate disarmament conference.

Mr. Truman likely will communicate with Secretary of State George C. Marshall, at Moscow, shortly after his return, to obtain the latest reaction of his top-ranking cabinet officer to the Russian attitude.

The President looked in fit shape when he greeted reporters here yesterday.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman had been "greatly benefitted by his stay here."

Georgia Supreme Court Rules Thompson Is Legal Governor

5-2 Decision Holds Herman Talmadge's Election by Legislature Was Unconstitutional.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA, March 19—The state supreme court ruled today that M. E. Thompson is the governor of Georgia.

In a 5 to 2 decision, the state's highest tribunal rejected claims of Herman Talmadge and held that Talmadge's election by the legislature was unconstitutional.

The supreme court thus moved to end nine weeks of political turmoil in which rival governors occupied the capitol and contended for control of state agencies and departments. Talmadge operated from the executive suite and a great majority of the departments recognized him as governor.

Not Effective Yet

The court's decision will not become final until expiration of time allowed for filing a motion for rehearing which may be filed by the losing side. Both sides have said there would be no attempt to carry the dispute into the federal courts.

Talmadge, who assumed office with the backing of national guard officers and state troopers, announced he would vacate both the executive office and the mansion "as soon as we can get the files out and our personal effects packed." Thompson will serve until January, 1949.

"People Are Last Resort"

Talmadge said in a statement to newsmen that he considered the people the court of last resort in political questions, and said the question "will be carried to the court of last resort." He did not elaborate further on that statement.

Talmadge said he would not ask the supreme court to reconsider its decision.

Thompson, in a statement from his offices in an Atlanta hotel, said the decision upheld his belief "that the will of the people as expressed by their ballots should prevail."

His offices were thrown into an uproar over the decision with well wishers rushing in and telephones ringing with congratulatory messages.

MARION CO. YOUTH FACES TWO CHARGES

Bound Over in Kenton; Makes Break from Sheriff.

Special to The Star

KENTON, March 19—An 18-year-old youth of Marion route 7, was in Hardin county jail today charged with armed robbery and breaking and entering, after he made a wild dash to escape from Hardin County Sheriff Randall Clark as he was being placed in his cell.

He is Delmer Sweringer, Oak Knolls youth picked up by Marion police recently and questioned regarding the stolen weapons found under an abandoned shed at Oak Knolls.

He was turned over to Upper Sandusky authorities several days ago on charges of breaking into a sporting goods store there and when released on bond was picked up by the Hardin county sheriff yesterday.

In his arraignment before Justice of Peace Worley Smith in Kenton this morning the youth admitted being one of the five who robbed the Forest Inn in Hardin county March 2 and also the breakin of the Rubins sports store in Kenton on the night of Feb. 25. He was bound over to the grand jury on $1,500 bond on each count.

While being returned to the Hardin county jail following his arraignment the youth broke away from Sheriff Clark as the door of his cell was being unlocked. Sheriff Clark reached for his revolver, which accidentally discharged as it was pulled from his hip pocket. The bullet struck the sheriff in the forefinger of the right hand, although the injury was not reported as serious.

Kenton police were notified of the youth's escape and 15 minutes later he was seen entering the residence of Charles Robey of 321 Franklin street. Police said he had walked through the house and demanded Mrs. Robey to let him out the back door. He was attempting to get out the back door when he was recaptured by police and returned to jail.

OHIO SUPER-HIGHWAY DEVELOPS SUPPORT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19 — Strong support for creation of a state commission authorized to build a network of super-highways from private funds developed at the senate highway committee's first hearing on the proposal.

The limited access roads, patterned after Pennsylvania's turnpike, would revert to the state after being paid for out of tolls, explained Sen. Ralph W. Winter (R-Medina) sponsor of the measure.

Proponents of the proposal told the committee last night that state funds were not available for such expensive highways and that unless permission to use private financing was given, the roads wouldn't be built.

Hal Sours, former state highway director, said Ohio's system of roads was old and that some routes had grown obsolete because of increased traffic.

D. E. Patterson, Lorain county engineer, estimated it would cost more than a billion dollars to modernize the state highway system and predicted present traffic would be doubled by 1960.

G.O.P. SEEKS ACCOUNTING OF FOREIGN POLICY

Lawmakers Ask More Details of Consequences of Aid to Greeks.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Republicans in congress insisted today on a broad accounting of administration foreign policy before granting American dollars to build fences against Communism in Greece and Turkey.

As the lawmakers settled down to translate President Truman's $400,000,000 request into legislation, many said it would be a close finish between action by congress and the March 31 withdrawal of the British from Greece.

Evidence mounted that the Greek-Turkish aid bill is only one aspect of a developing American program to help weak nations ward off Communism, not only through economic aid but by demonstrating its armed might abroad.

This strategy seemed to be bound up in the administration's decision to send a powerful naval task ploughing through the Mediterranean next month to Russia's gateway, the Dardanelles.

Timed With Aid Arrival

The demonstration of sea and air might will come at a time—congress willing—when this country's policy makers plan to send into Greece and Turkey aid in the form of money, material and military advisors.

Although the navy described the maneuvers as for "training purposes," it was obvious that such a decision could not have been reached without approval of the President and Secretary of State Marshall in view of possible repercussions from Russia.

This was the situation elsewhere in the capitol as the Chief Executive's proposal for an historic revision of foreign policy held top attention:

1. The house foreign affairs committee ordered public hearings, tomorrow on the $400,000,000 measure to aid Greece and Turkey.

2. Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) called the committee into executive session today to vote formal approval of another measure authorizing expenditure of $350,000,000 for relief in five European countries—Italy, Greece, Hungary, Austria and Poland—and China.

Demands Disarmament Conference

3. Senator Tydings (D-Md) told the senate President Truman should call a world disarmament conference immediately because of the "impotence of the United Nations as presently constituted" to deal effectively with the international affairs.

4. Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson cautioned at a news conference that disaster may result in Greece if there is a substantial gap between the end of British aid and the beginning of American help.

5. Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) protested in a radio address against "purchasing our way" into a controversy between Russia, Britain, and Turkey over the Dardanelles, terming it "international suicide." He said Britain is attempting to unload her "Block Russia" tactics upon "any boob nation that will grab the hook."

OHIO BUDGET CUT PLANNED

Representatives Quietly Line Up Behind Proposal To Hold It to Half Billion.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19 — Economy-minded representatives quietly lined up support today for an attempt to cut the administration's biennial budget bill below the half-billion dollar mark.

House leaders conceded the movement was mounting even as Rep. Paul H. Ballard's finance committee continued hearings on the record $532,900,000 appropriation measure.

Republicans expressed concern lest an all-time high in spending furnish Democrats with election campaign ammunition next year in view of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's early promises of "rigid and efficient economy."

Spurred by Blast

Their activities were spurred by an Ohio Chamber of Commerce blast at Herbert, claiming he had "turned his back on his campaign promises" and had "capitulated to the pressure from tax spending groups, and most notably the powerful school lobby."

House G.O.P. Floor Leader Paul L. McCormick (R-Logan) said previously he would insist on cutting more than $30,000,000 from the budget.

Amid the bustle, the house took up a bill by Ballard (R-Jackson) to appropriate $3,839,000 for capital improvements at welfare institutions and state universities.

Of the total, $3,301,000 would go to the welfare department; $36,000 to the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home at Sandusky; $26,900 to the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans home at Xenia, and the rest to universities.

Divided Among Universities

They would get the following: Bowling Green $27,666; Kent State $300; Miami $90,000; Ohio university $23,000; Ohio State $188,590 and Wilberforce $145,130.

Among measures up for a vote in the senate was one to create an Anthony Wayne parkway board to unify parks and shrines in 20 western counties traversed by General Wayne. Sponsors include George C. McCandless (R-Butler).

The house passed a bill to make permanent a statute expiring March 31 authorizing county commissioners to pay from $1 to $5 in bounties for red and gray foxes. The measure now goes to the senate. It was sponsored by Rep. George H. Kirkpatrick (R-Knox).

Representatives turned thumbs down on a proposal to require registration of marriages, divorces and annulments with the state health department at a fee of 50 cents for each document.

UN DELEGATES TURN TO ATOMIC CONTROL ISSUE

Must Reconcile Differences Between U. S. Russian Plans.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 19 — Delegates to the United Nations atomic energy commission turned once more today to the difficult assignment of controlling the atom for peaceful purposes.

They gathered with the realization that their problem was more complicated than ever because of the strong differences between Russia and the United States on atomic controls.

The United States wants an international development authority with full powers over all phases of atomic energy and with no veto anywhere on punishments of atomic criminals.

Soviet Russia, which rejected the United States plan in a stinging attack in the UN security council, wants a convention now to ban atomic weapons and another convention to set up control organs.

POLICE DOUBT NEW 'DAHLIA' CONFESSION

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, March 19 — St. Louis police reported a slender 22-year-old youth signed a statement admitting the "Black Dahlia" slaying but officers in Los Angeles, where the nude bisected body of Elizabeth Short was found, pointed today to discrepancies in the story.

The 22-year-old Miss Short was known as the "Black Dahlia" because of her black hair and clothing.

Chief of Detectives Leonard Murphy identified the youth as Melvin Robert Bailey and quoted him as saying he "got mad" at Miss Short because she refused to go east with him and "took my knife out and used it on her."

The mutilated body of the girl was discovered in a vacant lot in Los Angeles last Jan. 15.

Murphy said the youth related in the statement that he met Miss Short in a Los Angeles bar about Christmas time. In Los Angeles, Capt. Jack Donahoe said he was almost positive, from his investigations, that the girl was in San Diego, Calif., at that time.

2 Crestline Clubs Suspended 30 Days

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—The state board of liquor control announced today it had suspended five Crestline club permits for 30 days.

Effective last Friday they were the American Legion, Mt. Hunter post No. 488, and Veterans of Foreign Wars post No. 2820 in Crestline. Both organizations were charged by the board with exhibiting gambling devices.

Navy Veteran Given Medals

Russell R. Garver Honored at Ceremony Held in Marion Armory.

A Marion flier, Russell R. Garver, a member of the Mariner seaplane which made one of the Navy's first attacks on Japanese-held Shanghai was presented the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal in a formal military ceremony last night at the Armory. With representatives of various veterans organizations, headed by Capt. Robert Melby, serving as a guard of honor and Marion's Company M, Ohio State Guard, standing at attention, the Navy veteran received his medals from Charles Harmon, acting naval representative and former lieutenant (j.g.) in the U. S. Navy.

Discharged in January, 1946

Mr. Garver, discharged from the Navy in January last year as an aviation machinist's mate, third class, completed 20 missions against Japanese forces in the western Pacific theater from March 29 to June 19, 1945. Notification of the honors was received by him some time ago. It is the second time he has received the Distinguished Flying Cross and he also holds the Air Medal with three stars, the stars being awarded in lieu of reawarding the medal.

The text of the citation is as follows: "For heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight during operations against enemy Japanese forces in the western Pacific ocean area from March 29 to June 19, 1945. Completing his twentieth mission during this period, Garver contributed materially to the success of his squadron. His gallant devotion to duty was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Raid on Shanghai

In the attack on Shanghai July 17, 1945, three Japanese flight fighter planes closed within one to two miles as the plane approached Shanghai but were shaken off as the Navy Mariner seaplane took evasive action in the overcast. Demolition and fire bombs were dropped.

Mr. Garver flew 49 missions

CHURCH BUILDING PROGRAM APPROVED

Project To Be Started Soon by Nazarene Congregation.

Civilian Production Administration approval for construction of a basement at the First Church of the Nazarene was announced today in Columbus.

Rev. W. E. Zimmerman said work is expected to get underway within a few weeks. The $12,000 concrete and brick basement will be the first unit in a one-story modernistic church which will be constructed on the east side of South Prospect street, in a presently vacant lot one house north from West Columbia street.

The congregation's present church, at the northwest corner of South Prospect and West Columbia street, was condemned as unsafe several months ago by the state industrial commission.

It is hoped to finish the basement about six months after start of contruction. It will serve temporarily as an auditorium where services will be held and will seat about 400. The present church has a capacity of 200. When the rest of the church is built, the basement will be converted into Sunday school rooms.

Construction of the remainder of the church is dependent on priorities, but Rev. Zimmerman said it has been indicated that obstacles to continuing the work are likely to be removed by the time the basement is finished.

The new church will be of modernistic design, with steel structure and brick walls. It will include one story and a balcony.

"Freedom from Fear" Is Theme of Roosevelt Film

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—The first of what may be a series of movies on the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be based, Producer Jay Richard Kennedy disclosed last night, on one of the late president's "four freedoms"—freedom from fear.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, here on a lecture tour, has approved his plans for the movie, Kennedy said. The late president's widow and her son, James, conferred with Kennedy in James' Beverly Hills home.

"We are predicating the picture," Kennedy said, "on a statement in Roosevelt's 1933 inaugural address: 'There is nothing to fear but fear itself.'"

Senate Airs Teachers' Pay

Conduct Hearings on Ohio Proposal To Set 6 Million for Boost.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19 — Hearing on an administration proposal to appropriate $6,000,000 for immediate increases in pay of teachers and school employes was the major business of the senate finance committee today.

The appropriation was recommended by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert in his budget message to the general assembly last Wednesday and was estimated to provide an average of about $150 extra per teacher this year.

The $6,000,000 was part of Herbert's program to provide approximately $160,000,000 during the biennium for schools, which the Ohio Chamber of Commerce said was a 37 per cent increase over the previous two years.

The bill to carry out the appropriation was introduced by Sens. Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland) and Virgil E. Cramer (R-Lucas). Both are sponsors of an $85,000,000-a-year school subsidy measure bearing their names, which last week was recommended for passage by the senate education committee. The bill now is pending in the senate rules committee.

Cramer said it would be at least two weeks before the education committee could hear another school bill proposing continuation of the present foundation program plus $14,500,000 a year for teacher pay during the biennium.

TRUMAN ASKS CURB ON EXPORTS BE KEPT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—President Truman today asked congress to extend the government's controls over exports for a year beyond their present expiration date, June 30.

He said in a message requesting speedy action that an uncontrolled outflow of foodstuffs and goods would heighen domestic shortages and increase the "already substantial burden of living costs borne by the American people."

About 500 items—mostly foods—remain under export control compared with some 3,000 at the wartime peak, he said, adding:

"I look forward to the day when the United States and other countries can remove these interferences to the free flow of commodities in world trade."

Delay by congress would "prove unsettling to business and would handicap the planning and execution of our food and other export programs," Mr. Truman said in asking the senate and house to act "well in advance," of the mid-year deadline.

The message was sent to Capitol Hill by the White House in Mr. Truman's absence on a vacation in Florida.

ST. MARY JOINS FLU CLOSING

Classes Suspended for Remainder of Week; Illness Nears Epidemic Stage.

St. Mary Parochial school dismissed classes at noon today for the remainder of the week due to the flu epidemic which has spread throughout Marion and parts of the county. Although the absence there was not as large as yesterday, officials decided to close, thereby conforming with the Marion city schools which were shut down Monday noon. All schools will reopen on Monday.

Three Marion county schools, Prospect, Pleasant township and Grand Prairie township, remained closed today, with Prospect and Pleasant scheduled to reopen Thursday and Grand Prairie next Monday. Other county schools have not reported large absences.

Nearing Epidemic

Dr. Roger E. Heering, state health director, declared today that influenza in Ohio is "approaching an epidemic stage," but he added thus far the illness seems to be a mild type, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Report at St. Mary school showed 118 pupils absent which is 26.7 per cent of the total enrollment. This is 12 pupils fewer than the 130 reported absent yesterday.

Richwood schools closed Monday and Tuesday, but were scheduled to reopen today. The schools at Upper Sandusky were shut down Tuesday for the remainder of the week.

Dr. Heering said there had been "a few deaths" this winter, but the mortality rate was "in no way alarming" and far from comparable to the 1918 epidemic.

County health commissioners have been advised not to close schools unless so many teachers and students are ill it is impracticable to keep them open, the state health director disclosed.

"The children who are well are no worse off in school than running around in the streets and going to movies," he said.

Many Schools Close

Despite this advice, however, many Ohio public schools, both urban and rural, have been closed down intermittently for the last two or three weeks.

Schools in widely scattered areas of the state have been affected, with other schools escaping almost entirely the erratic skipping of the germ.

Some school officials yesterday optimistically reported the wave of influenza—a seasonal hazard in the area—seemed to be on the wane.

School systems in Lancaster, Cuyahoga Falls and Fremont were closed yesterday and numerous individual schools were shut down in other localities.

Red Cross Workers To Report Tonight

Workers in the Marion County Red Cross financial campaign will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock for a report of progress in the work of raising $37,600, Marion county's quota in the $80,000,000 drive to carry on the work of the American Red Cross.

Clarence Shockney, chairman of the campaign, will be in charge of the meeting which will be held in campaign headquarters at 198 East Center street.

STRIKE THREAT APRIL 1 ENDED

Terse Letter Complies Completely with Supreme Court Mandate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—John L. Lewis today withdrew his contract termination notice to the government effective March 31 in compliance with a supreme court mandate.

Lewis sent a 20-word letter to Secretary of Interior Krug announcing that the notice which he had given Krug last Nov. 15 "is hereby unconditionally withdrawn."

It was this notice of contract termination that touched off a 17-day strike last fall.

Lewis called off that strike until March 31.

Ends Strike Possibility

His action today thus apparently erases the possibility of renewal of the work stoppage at the end of this month.

Without a contract, the miners historically do not work.

Thus, Lewis' action continues in force the contract he signed with Krug late last spring after the government had seized the mines to end a 59-day stoppage.

It was this contract that Lewis sought to end last fall. The government obtained an order from Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough directing Lewis and his miners to call off a strike that followed in November.

When Lewis refused, he and the miners were held guilty of contempt, Lewis was fined $10,000 and the United Mine Workers were fined $3,500,000. The supreme court upheld the contempt convictions and Lewis' fine.

Fine Reduced for Union

The court, however, directed that the union fine be reduced to $700,000, provided Lewis withdraw his notice ending the contract with the government within five days after issuance of the supreme court mandate.

Subsequently, on petition of the government, the supreme court speeded effectiveness of its order. Its mandate is to be filed with the federal district court tomorrow.

Thus, by obeying the court order today, Lewis saves the mine union a possible additional fine of $2,700,000.

Copies of Lewis' letter also went to members of the UMW notifying them that he had called off his notice to end the contract with the government.

Krug did not comment immediately on Lewis' action.

However, Navy Capt. N. H. Collinson, coal mines administrator under Krug, said:

"This appears to be full and complete compliance, without hedging of any sort, I don't see how it can be otherwise construed."

Collinson said he and Krug planned to confer as to the next step.

K. C. Adams, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal, distributed copies of Lewis' no ce ending the strike threat to newsmen. The UMW leader himself was not present.

Unless congress takes action to extend authority of the government to seize and operate such properties in the public interest, the tenure of the coal mines administrator will cease June 30.

Whether Lewis and the coal operators, often in disagreement, can be brought together to sign a contract by that time is uncertain.

RUBBER UNION MAPS PLANS FOR WALKOUT

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 19—Three of the largest locals in the CIO United Rubber Workers union pushed their plans today for a strike against the "Big Four" rubber companies, scheduled to start Sunday at midnight.

Unions in the Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich plants distributed handbills at local plant gates today, outlining plans for a walkout in support of demands for a wage increase of 18 cents an hour. U. S. Rubber, the other member of the Big Four, does not have a plant here.

Paul W. Fuller, president emeritus of the rubber industry, continued his efforts to arrange a conference between union and company representatives.

The strike would affect nearly 110,000 employes of the Big Four in 41 plants in 23 states. The union originally asked a wage hike of 20 cents an hour, and later negotiations dropped the demand to 18 cents an hour. The present hourly rate here is $1.36.

FARM PROGRAM IN SECOND DAY

Herbert, Farnsworth To Address Farm-and-Home Week Group.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and State Agriculture Director Frank N. Farnsworth headed up second day activities of Ohio State university's 35th annual Farm-and-Home week here today.

The governor and Farnsworth tonight address approximately 2,000 agriculturists after a day of lectures, quizzes, and clinics in almost every phase of farming and farm-life.

Visitors to first-day Farm-and-Home program sessions yesterday heard John Strohm, president of the American Association of Agricultural Editors' association, state that Russians literally quake when there is mention of another war.

Reconstruction in Minds

Strohm, who managed to tour the Soviet Union for writing purposes at the direct order of Premier Stalin, said reconstruction is uppermost in Russia's average citizen's mind. Secondly, he said, Russian people are hungry and "extremely short of shoes, clothing and all consumer goods."

The Ohio Wool Growers' association, participating in the Farm-and-Home week, yesterday re-elected for one-year terms President R. E Ascham of Findlay and Vice President D. C Bradfute of Xenia. The wool growers also named as directors, for three-year terms, E. C Newcomer, Bryan, H. C Kuns, Castalia; D. L. Burrier, Scio, Lowell Berninger, Prospect, Daniel Z. Forry, Kirkersville, F. O Drum, Cadiz, and Clarence McKelvey, Killbuck.

Beginners Advised To Rent

Two Ohio State university professors advised beginning farmers yesterday to rent and wait until prices go down before they invest in land and buildings.

The advice came from J. H. Sitterly and H. R. Moore of the university's department of rural economics and rural sociology in a discussion connected with the annual Farm-and-Home week.

Sitterly pointed out that in pioneer days a farmer could get a start with a $300 investment, whereas now a capital outlay of $23,500 to $27,500 is needed to purchase and operate a 75 to 100-acre commercial family farm which could be considered an "efficient unit by the typical Ohio farmer."

From $14,000 to $18,500 would be needed to buy and operate a farm which would have a "reasonable chance" of being developed into an efficient commercial family farm, he added.

STATE LIQUOR BOARD WEIGHS LORAIN CASE

Spends 7 Hours Hearing Quarrelsome Testimony.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—The state liquor board, whose docket is full for weeks to come, organized its thoughts today for a decision in a private club case that took seven hours to hear and was marked by quarrels between opposing counsel, admonitions from the bench, and fine detail

The matter at stake was whether the Fathers of Servicemen of America, Chapter 2, of Lorain, was a bonafide club—whether it had the necessary three years of past history to qualify for its private club permit. The permit was issued Dec. 23, 1946, among the dozens granted during the closing days of the administration of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The case was taken under advisement yesterday.

CHINESE COMMUNIST CAPITAL CAPTURED

By The Associated Press

NANKING, March 19—The Chinese government announced tonight that Nationalist troops had entered Yenan, capital of the Chinese Communists.

The announcement followed on the heels of a previous report from Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-pei that the fast moving troops under Gen. Hu Chung-nan were within sight of the outer water-towers, less than 13 miles from the heart of the Shensi province city.

At that time Peng declared that with Hu's column striking at the heart of the city and other Nationalist spearheads working along the flanking ridges, the position of the Communists was "untenable." He said "after the fall of Yenan the military situation in China will hinge on Communist policy, which up to the present has been to place implicit faith in armed forces."

Peng indicated the government would consider the occupation of Yenan, which has been the focal point for Communist activity, the turning point in the civil war.

From an economic standpoint, the Nationalist troops will gain little from their occupation of the city. The Communists have been evacuating the city for more than a month. The conquerors will find a city stripped of everything that is movable.

There is no indication here of where any new Communist capital might be located

LOADINGS UP DESPITE SHORTAGE OF CARS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Despite a shortage of box cars in many parts of the country, railroad carloadings since Jan. 1 have reached a peak not equalled since 1930, W. E. Callahan, manager of the Association of American Railroads told a Columbus meeting yesterday.

Revenue of all Class I railroads since the first of the year, Callahan advised the Ohio Valley Transportation board, have increased 9.3 per cent over last year's similar period and 5.2 per cent over the like span in 1945. This had been accomplished, he continued, despite a loss of 11,871 freight cars during the past year. He placed the number of serviceable cars available now at 1,670,431, compared with 1,682,302 a year ago.

The outlook for additional equipment was "somewhat optimistic," the speaker said, adding:

"On March 1, railroads had 81,000 cars on order, about half of which are box cars. At this time last year, there were 39,191 cars ordered. In the light of increased steel allocations and assurance of substantially improved car production, the railroads may be expected to further increase orders soon to a total probably exceeding 100,000 units."

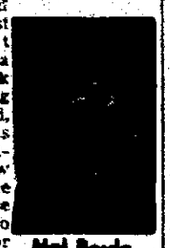
More Light on Yank Surprise at Remagen

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA, Fla., March 19—The question of what happened at Ludendorf bridge after the famous surprise crossing of the Rhine river is about as scrambled as the mystery of who put the overalls in the Irish lady's chowder.

On the second anniversary of Remagen I gave a new sidelight on this immortal operation. A young officer who survived the adventure told me that the first infantry unit across heard a German truck backfire during the night, and, believing it was a Nazi tank attack, withdrew back over the Rhine because there was no American armor over yet to support them.



Hal Boyle

This officer said that as far as he knew only a platoon sergeant and his runner, blissfully asleep in their foxholes after three days of continuous advance, remained on the eastern bank of the river until the doughboys who had withdrawn were reorganized by their officers and sent back across—this time to stay.

I cited his story to show how slight are the events that may tip the scales of victory for weary men in battle. I pointed out that if a small Nazi armored unit had counterattacked vigorously during this withdrawal they could have regained and destroyed the bridge.

In a letter to the Baltimore Sun containing several inaccuracies, Irving J. Neuman undertook to refute my "most inaccurate report." This report, incidentally, isn't mine. It is the report of a young officer in the 27th armored infantry battalion, the first unit across. I didn't get over until the following morning.

Neuman — who mistakenly identifies the 27th as a tank battalion instead of an infantry battalion—was an officer in the 52nd infantry battalion, which he said "immediately followed" the 27th across the bridge.

Denies Any Retreat

"Neither unit ever retreated one step," said Neuman. He acknowledged that a "rumored tank attack" did disorganize "a very few men for a short period of time, and a platoon leader with poor nerves was relieved of his command." But, said Neuman, "even these few men certainly did not retreat across the bridge."

Against Neuman's contention I will first cite the statement of his own superior officer, Maj. Gen. William M. Hoge, wartime commander of the Ninth armored division, of which the 27th and 52nd armored infantry battalions were component parts. Hoge admitted in a press interview at Cincinnati last week that there had been a withdrawal at Remagen—obviously unordered. The general said, however, he thought that at least one company and perhaps remnants of other companies remained across the Rhine. On this point his account differs with that given me by the young officer of the 27th.

Views Differ

As to Neuman's statement that the 52nd battalion "immediately followed" the 27th across the bridge—which general Hoge said was seized at 4 p. m. — let me quote from a letter just received from an enlisted man who served in Neuman's own battalion:

"My company (Co. A, 52nd A.I.B.) was on that bridge from about 7:00 p. m. until about 10:00 or 11:00 p. m. that evening because we didn't know which way to go or what to do. I think most of the boys slept all that time we were on that bridge.

"Our platoon leaders—even our C. O.—Didn't know what to do. After about two or three hours on that bridge we went through the Co. A, 27th A.I.B. lines which were in the valley by the bridge and up on the bluff beyond them.

"After that they thought they were being attacked and they left us after we had come to protect them or help them protect themselves."

The enlisted man said that "as far as I know our whole battalion was on that side and we stayed there." This bears out General Hoge's belief that all troops didn't join in the withdrawal.

But another portion of his letter disagreed with General Hoge's statement that the withdrawal lasted only a matter of minutes instead of hours.

Co. A Comes Back

"The next morning," it said, "Co. A, 27th A.I.B. fired at us from across the river, thinking we were Germans. After they were told different I guess they got ashamed of themselves and came back over with us."

This indicates that at least some of the doughboys who withdrew during the night were still on the wrong side of the river at dawn.

Well, there's the story—contradictory in spots—of what actually happened at the Ludendorf bridge, as best it can be pieced together from four survivors. I am sure ex-officer Neuman will realize there is no discourtesy of the memory of the dead at Remagen in telling the truth of the engagement. The truth needs to be told of all war operations.

Doubt, fear and indecision have characterized all battlefields since Cain attacked Abel, as all soldiers know. To point out these factors were present at Remagen, too, in no way dims the glory won by the tired doughboys of the Ninth armored division who stormed and captured the Ludendorf bridge in one of the most brilliant military gambles in history.

Meaning of Democracy Varies With Different Times, People

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 19 — What is democracy? We claim we have it in the United States. The Russians claim they have it.

It has meant different things to different men, and still does.

The Greeks claimed it 400 years before Christ. In their city states the citizens voted, held office, made laws.

James Marlow

But citizenship was by birth only. Their democracy was built on slave labor. In shining Athens one-third of the population was slave.

In this country democracy now is different from what it was. We, too, helped build our democracy on slave labor.

The 1776 Declaration of Independence said "all men are created equal" and the constitution of 1791 guaranteed freedom, but southern slaves were not freed until the Civil war.

(The word "democracy" doesn't appear in the Declaration or the Constitution.

(Historian Charles Beard in his "The Republic" says the Constitution's framers considered it a word "to be dreaded rather than encouraged.")

Here is a try at what we mean by democracy in this country now: Freedom of speech, press, assembly, religion, and trial by jury.

We claim we have political democracy: the people are the government and, from the candidates of opposing political parties, choose their candidates to run it.

Do We Have Equality?

According to this, one man's vote is as good as another's. Which would mean: we have political democracy, or equality. This isn't so.

In the south Negroes don't have political equality because of the various devices used to keep them from voting.

And we don't have social equality. In the south, and elsewhere, Negroes are considered social inferiors and are so treated.

We don't have social and economic equality—since we have the rich, middle and poorer classes—although men are free to move up, if they can.

The Russians look at us and say: we have complete social and economic democracy, or equality. Your idea of political democracy is absurd.

Communists' Theory

What do they mean? Before examining what they call democracy, look at the Communists' theory of what they're aiming for.

The Communists, overthrowing the land and money owning classes, set up what they call the dictatorship of the proletariat, the workers and peasants.

(There's a dictatorship there, all right, but it's the dictatorship of the Communist party:.

(Of Russia's 190,000,000 people, probably not more than 5,000,000 are members of the Communist party. No one can join just by asking. He must qualify, be obedient, and dedicate himself to party work).

The Communists' theory in Russia, or any country, is this:

A dictatorship is needed (the so-called proletariat dictatorship) for perhaps a couple of generations, or until the mass of people are educated to Communism.

Then there'll be no need of dictatorship since the mass of the people will all think the same way and run the government for themselves.

(One question which bothers many people: will any group of men, once they've set up a dictatorship, ever want to give up that power?)

Because Rusaia is now made up of workers and peasants, the Communists say, there are no class distinctions and, therefore, there is complete social and economic democracy, or equality.

As to political opposition: They don't permit it. Why? They say political opposition would mean there is class opposition but there is no such thing in Russia. (Anyone who tried it would be jailed or shot).

The Russian constiution of 1936 guarantees freedom of speech, press, assembly. But the press is not free. It's state-controlled. And there's a secret police ready to nab anyone opposed to the government.

In 1938 Ambassador Joseph E. Davies, in his book, "Mission to Moscow," wrote:

"No (Russian) household, however humble, apparently, but what lives in constant fear of a nocturnal raid by the secret police."

That is what Secretary of State Marshall must have had in mind last Friday when he told the Russians in Moscow:

"To us a society is not democratic if men who respect the rights of their fellow men are not free to express their own beliefs and convictions without fear that they may be snatched away from their home or families."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Influenza

Influenza is again on the rampage. That is why it is well for patients who have had an attack of influenza to realize that they cannot rush the business of getting well.

In the first place, they may not regain their full vitality at once. They are quite likely to experience such symptoms as pain here or there in the body, accompanied by tiredness and weakness which may last for time time. This condition is most likely to develop if the attack of influenza has been prolonged and the patient has been slow in recovering from it.

In addition to the symptoms mentioned, the patient may have frequent and recurrent attacks of sore throat and cough, night sweats, poor appetite, loss of weight, sleeplessness, tingling of the fingers and toes, and lack of energy.

According to Dr. Gordon G. Allison of Atlanta, Ga., these symptoms may occur for as long a time as six to 20 months. On examination of the throat, it is often found that the roof of the mouth and the back part of the throat as well as the tonsils are red and swollen. In addition, there is some swelling of the lymph glands in the neck. The lymph glands at the root of the lung may also be enlarged as shown by X-ray plates.

Dr. Allison believes that the symptoms occur because the virus which produces influenza is still present in the body, particularly in the lymph blands, thus causing the pain in various parts of the body.

Many of the patients develop anemia, or a lessening of the coloring in the blood. Such preparations as the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin do not seem to have any effect in this condition.

The treatment consists in keeping the patient at rest, particularly when the pain is at all severe or if there is fever. The application of heat may also help to relieve the pain. This can be done with hot, wet dressings, with an electric heat pad, or hot water bottle.

Another form of treatment which is used is to give an injection of some protein, such as boiled milk. This produces fever and eventually aids in overcoming the difficulty.

Dr. Allison also recommends the use of some preparation such as potassium iodide. Some iron-containing preparation may also be administered to overcome the anemia.

If the patient is not relieved by these measures, a mixture containing vitamin B-1 or thiamine and a local anesthetic or pain-relieving preparation is injected in and around the painful area. It has been found that if such injections have been carried out twice weekly for two weeks, the pain is lessened and the duration of the attack shortened to a great extent.

I have mentioned many times the danger of returning to normal activities too soon after an attack of influenza. A patient who has such a condition should remain in bed at complete rest until there has been no fever for at least 48 hours.

Galion Grade Pupils Offer P.-T.A. Program

Special to The Star

GALION, March 19 — A program of music furnished by the elementary grades was heard at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers association of the Junior High and West elementary school Monday night. The program was directed by Mrs. Aurelia Meuser, music teacher, and other teachers of the school.

Two numbers were played by the Rhythm Band of the kindergarten, special numbers were presented by Billy Breese, Sue Ann Sheely and Billy Debolt. A folk dance was given by the third grade and choral numbers were presented by third and fourth grades. Two trios, one composed of Joyce McDowell, Marjorie Mulberg and Dolores Hartman and the other of Arnold Garverick, Richard Ekin and James Akers sang.

A choral recitation was presented by the fifth grade from which a girls' octette also appeared; a sixth grade chorus sang with solos by Marilyn Ulmer and Philip Bunyard. A play was also given by another fifth and sixth grade group. Rosemary Baxter and Jimmy Fink were accompanists for special numbers by the fifth and sixth grade groups.

Devotions were led by Rev. W. H. Ayers of the Market Street Methodist church and M. A. Povenmire, superintendent of schools, spoke.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that S.S.S. Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the S.S.S. Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, S.S.S. Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on S.S.S. Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. S.S.S. Tonic Helps Build Sturdy Health.

PROPOSES TO COLOR MARGARINE RED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—Red margarine to go with red jam on that slice of bread and jam.

This was one of the suggestions tossed yesterday into the hopper of a senate committee conducting hearings on a proposal to lift the ban against the manufacture and sale of a colored margarine in Ohio.

The suggestion came from J. W. Hartsook, representing the Milk Producers Federation of Cleveland, who said such a shade might meet with the approval of dairy interests.

Senator Clingan Jackson (D-Youngstown) asked the witness whether he recommended a law requiring red coloring for margarine, but Hartsook replied that he did not—that the matter of color "should be left to the margarine people."

Another committee member, Senator Fred G. Reinors (R-Cincinnati), inquired of the witness why there were objections to the coloring of margarine in view of the fact that butter is colored artificially during the winter months.

Hartsook's reply was that the "oleo people are trying to muscle into the butter industry."

Robert Williams, secretary of the Ohio State Restaurant association, appeared in favor of the bill. He contended that the Ohio housewife was not permitted to purchase colored margarine because of an "antiquated law." He added that colored margarine is manufactured in Columbus on federal government order for export to Russia.

GALION COUNTRY CLUB SAVED FROM AUCTION

Majority of Bondholders Act To Effect Reorganization.

Special to The Star

GALION, March 19—Action by 55 per cent of the bondholders has saved the Galion Country club from the auctioneer's gavel, and the proposed sale of the property on March 25, it was announced here, Monday.

This majority of bondholders agreed to the removal of the trustee which automatically stopped the action that would have made it necessary to sell the club. The majority of bondholders voted to redeem the outstanding bonds, amounting to $12,300 held by 45 per cent of the bondholders whose claims were forcing sale of the property.

Attorney Robert L. Moulton has been appointed trustee of the bondholders, succeeding A. M. Metheany, and the club will be reorganized in the near future. There were 68 per cent of the bondholders signing the petition for the removal of the trustee and redemption to the minority of bondholders.

Man in Motion

GEN. MacARTHUR'S knowledge of football, it may be assumed, is adequate for the game he is playing as supreme commander for the Allied powers in defeated Japan. He undoubtedly understands the principle of the man in motion.

This is the man the opposition must watch, for two reasons. First, he is in motion. Second, he may be going somewhere. Not to watch him may be fatal. To watch him may be fatal, also. The man in motion is one of the triumphs of deception in American sports.

Gen. MacArthur now has constituted himself the man in motion in international power politics, a relatively new game which the United States is learning to play. He has announced without warning that negotiations should begin on a peace treaty for Japan. Military occupation, he says, should be terminated as soon as possible. Further control of the Japanese nation then should pass to the United Nations, he believes.

This will give the opposition something to think about, in addition to affairs in the Middle East, Lake Success, Moscow and various way stations. Where MacArthur is going is conjectural. What he intends to do is conjectural. How soon he intends to do it and why also are conjectural. The man-in-motion is a beautiful play to watch.

Flu's Too Good for It

ONE wonders as the flu victims stagger and fall out of line whether there was the same thing in the old days and, if there was, how civilization survived. If world supremacy ever is achieved by one nation, it will be the one whose citizens are first to develop immunity to the flu. After that, everything will be simple. All the other nations will be knocked off during flu epidemics. The beauty of this plan of conquest is that the victims won't mind. When flu strikes, all else is relatively inconsequential. The eyes are two painful spheres forced into the front elevation of a structure once known as the head before it turned into a blob of throbbing bone suitably only for placing tenderly on pillows. The rest of the body is painfully, protestingly present, but something has happened to the sum of all its parts; they don't add up to anything cogent. Surely, nothing so humiliating ever could have happened to a human being. This wretched condition—this vile flu—is nothing proper for men to tolerate in an order of things based on dignity. Flu is the antithesis of dignity.

Amending the Constitution

WITH favorable action by the senate on the proposed Constitutional amendment restricting presidential tenure, it now appears certain that the measure will go to the states for ratification. The senate altered the house draft by extending the tenure from 8 to 10 years to provide for vice presidents who become president and serve for less than two years. It also agreed that the amendment will not become effective until President Truman leaves office.

Most of the amendments during the present century were added to the Constitution at times when shifts in party control had recently taken place or were clearly impending. The amendment for direct election of senators was adopted early in Wilson's first term. Women's suffrage passed after the Republicans had gained control of congress mid-way in Wilson's second term. The 20th, or so-called lame duck amendment, took effect shortly before, and the prohibition repeal amendment shortly after, the Democrats took control in 1933.

More than 3,000 proposed amendments have come before congress since the Constitution was adopted. Only 26 got the necessary two-thirds majority to be submitted to the states, and five failed of ratification.

Weather as a Weapon

THE United States Army, with a team of major-league scientists, is looking into the possibilities of large-scale weather control. The wartime FIDO, or fog-dispersing apparatus, which was used to clear the air around landing fields, will be small apples compared so what the researchers hope to develop.

As a weapon, weather is about as much outside the pale of man's understanding as the atom bomb was—and still is to most. But in theory if a storm were prevented in one area, it would wreak its fury in another. Similarly, a cloud no larger than a man's hand, as the saying goes, might be sent on its way, building up in intensity until it was ready to loose its fury over the target. There also is the possibility of denying rain to an area, withering its crops and drying its reservoirs.

The day may come when the use of atomic power in warfare would be stalemated in much the way that poison gas warfare was. Then the militant meteorologist would come into his own, making big storms out of little ones and trying to outwit his opposite number on the other side of the ramparts.

Everything considered, the possibility of meteorological warfare is another reason for the noise-makers to buckle down to their job.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Confusion Exists Over Form of Greek Loan.

WASHINGTON, March 19—Mr. Truman did not seek any specific form of his proposed $400,000,000 aid to Greece and Turkey, so no one has been able to get a direct line on the idea—or the possible results. Not even the congressmen in charge of the legislation profess to be clear on the subject, and the other legislators have been sloshing around in a somewhat bewildered state. Certainly their ideas have not coalesced.

The truth is no one wants to make the loan, grant, trust fund, gift or whatever it finally is to be. This includes Republicans and Democrats, and all phases of the proposed venture including the diplomatic aspect of British policy. The Attlee government seems to wish to withdraw from world affairs, or at least withdraw its troops from same. Certainly it seems to wish to abandon the empire, but some officials say Britain only wishes to abandon its commitments in Greece, Palestine, Egypt, India and Burma while clinging to France and Germany. Whatever she is doing, no one knows, and there are grave doubts that either Mr. Atlee or Mr. Bevin does. But whatever it turns out to be is surely a weakening of the British end of the fight for democracy and individual freedom around the world.

Both Policies Confused

Her foreign policy seems as confused as her domestic policy, and as little aimed to attain the results her government desires as her policy of reducing the work-week in the coal mines at a time when she needs coal production desperately. Private British reports suggest there is no chance of the confused British government arriving at any political clarity through a coalition administration or any joint nonpartisan patriotic effort, but that the Socialist Laborite government will last its five years in office. Even some sympathetic British government sources say their politicians can thank God for the snowstorms and blizzards which covered up the mistakes of the Atlee regime from the eyes of the people. In any event, congressmen actually do not seem to know much more than about it than you do. Whence has come their reluctance and inquisitiveness. (Note—I am told the British sounded out this government officially on another loan for itself, and was told promptly public opinion in this country would not support another loan at this time.)

Uncertainty originates in those British facts, and spreads from there on. Officially there was no surprise at the British request that we take over her Greek commitments, at least in one sense. Last fall the Attlee government announced it would retire from Greece. The only thing new, apparently is that she will withdraw economic aid. She intended to take her troops out anyway.

In this connection few authorities here think the administration's New Dealers in Greece inspired or had much to do with the development of the Truman policy. Paul Porter (remember OPA?) has been the special economic envoy of the administration to Greece, but he was not even called back for consultation until long after Mr. Truman had decided to act.

Standing Not Too High

Also his standing at the state department is reputedly not the highest. Another New Deal editor, Mark Ethridge, is in Greece for UN studying guerrilla warfare prospects, which are at the root of the situation because the Russians are supposed to have armed the guerrillas for a spring campaign to overthrow the government. Indeed, unverifiable rumor has reached official quarters that some of our own lend-lease material is now arming the guerrillas. We shipped this stuff to Yugoslavia, and Tito and Yugoslavia sent the material on to the guerrillas. At any rate, this nation has had a starstudded New Deal cast at the top in Greece. But inside information here suggests its influence is far from important. One quasi-official report suggests, indeed, that Porter wrote a letter to a senator demanding that we change our Greek policy to that of the Russians, favoring overthrow of King George. If he did this, his popularity would be ended on the inside here.

All this adds to congressional lack of clarity—except perhaps on one phase. Everyone recognizes Greece needs help and wants to give it. Yet in this unanimous desire, the congressmen are in a somewhat nebulous state. Reporters covering the hearing in both houses heard no figures produced as to how much relief is already being given Greece by us. A Greek relief society has been activitly soliciting funds. The churches are conducting a campaign throughout this country for relief, supplanting their campaign of last year. These voluntary efforts to aid the Greeks has met wholehearted response throughout the nation and must have done much good. Yet no one mentioned this in the hearings. The reports, covering same, say Greece was occupied by both Italians and Nazis during the war and her industries were destroyed, so she needs economic help. All apparently took this situation for granted and no detailed understanding of the actual current situation was developed anywhere.

(This subject will be concluded in tomorrow's column.)

Larceny After Registration

Departing guests recently stripped an Independence, Mo. tourist cabin of a table, chair, three rugs, mattress, two pillows, two pillow-cases, two sheets a blanket and a bedspread.

They must not have cared for the design on the wall-paper.

In the case of the bed, of course, it is pretty generally resognized that anything which requires a truck to take away can be classified as a souvenir only in time of war.

Seriously, what is there about human nature that makes the average hotel guest consider those signs, "STOP—HAVE YOU LEFT ANYTHING?" a challenge rather than a reminder?

A man who would recoil in horror at the suggestion of cheating at solitaire will stuff his suitcase with bathmats and nonchalance. That's why the life expectancy of a Pullman towel is shorter than a monarchist's in Moscow.

Women, if anything, are worse. In fact, so far as I have been able to determine, the idea of the scorched-earth policy originated with a lady tourist.

Tight Lacing Long an Issue

Corset Controversy Started in 1887.

BACK in 1887—the year that the country was singing the popular ballad "If the Waters Could Speak As They Flow"—doctors here and abroad were having heated discussions as to whether the tight lacing of women's corsets had any relationship to disease.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, who is writing a history of the American Medical Association in connection with the centennial celebration in Atlantic City, June 9-13, says it all started when a prominent German professor became convinced that gallstones and tight lacing had a definite relationship.

Theory Doubted

"Dr. Nathan S. Davis, who was editor of The Journal of the American Medical Association at that time, rather doubted that there was a true casual relationship but he was inclined to think that perhaps it was just frequent coincidence." Dr. Fishbein wrote in one of the chapters appearing in The Journal of the A. M. A. "Dr. Davis pointed out that the tight lacing goes on during the day and is loosened up at night. However he felt that persistent tight lacing could cause a change in the configuration and that probably after all some cases of gallstones and perhaps also cancers of the gallbladder were due to tight lacing. Incidentally, a few pathologists had found the liver completely deformed by the tight stays of the corset of that day."

Continuing, Dr. Fishbein wrote: "It is not surprising then to find that Dr. Helen L. Betts of Boston read a paper before the Gynecological Society of Boston in December 1887 on the dress of woman and its relationship to the etiology and treatment of pelvic disease. Dr. Helen Betts was an advocate of dress reform. She wanted women to get rid of all the clinging garments with which their bodies were developed and she wanted them to get some exercise and outdoor life similar to that permitted to boys. She attributed congestion of the internal organs of women to their clothing and their habits.

Case is Cited

She cited a case from her own practice in which she felt that this was the primary trouble:

"The first, clearest indication seemed to remove the superincumbent pressure; so, as usual, I examined her mode of dress. You will be interested from a professional standpoint to know what this patient wore. I examined her at her home, so she had on simply her indoor garments. There were knit and muslin drawers, flannel and muslin underskirts, hoopskirt and bustle, then a muslin and a dress skirt, seven bands; fourteen thicknesses were buttoned closely about the corset, and, not long before, her physician, having noticed that she wore her garters about her legs, said he feared they would interfere with circulation and advised that she put an elastic band about the waist and fasten the stockings to this! I asked if her clothes were not oppressive. She said she thought she wore very light clothing but had noticed at night a purple crease about the waist where the bands came about the corset and wondered if that could keep her from gaining strength. With all this weight and compression this poor woman was waiting to get well, wondering why she could not stand, that her limbs ached and prickled, and why she could not walk without getting so tired. Neither physician nor specialist had spoken of her mode of dress."

And Dr. Betts went further by pointing out that the men doctors simply did not know about these things because the men themselves had never submitted to that kind of clothing."

The history of the A. M. A. which Dr. Fishbein, editor of The Journal, is writing will be printed in book form and distributed at the Atlantic City meeting.

Britain Comes Next

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, March 19—President Truman has at last boldly faced up to the world crisis. With his message to the congress on Greece, he has inaugurated a new American foreign policy more active, more positive and longer in range than anything previously attempted. The message is only a first step. The President has indicated this. And his judgment has been boldly confirmed by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, whose part in the historic decision just taken has been of inestimable importance.

The kind of thing that must now be looked for is at least suggested by an inconspicuous episode in the preparations for the Moscow conference. Before such meetings in the past, it was always the strict rule to avoid any consultation with other powers, and especially with Britain. The idea was to give the Soviets no ground for suspecting us of "ganging up." But before Secretary of State George C. Marshall went to Moscow, this rule of the past was tossed into the discard.

Marshall himself stopped enroute in France for a sort of state visit, intended primarily to assure the French of American support and strengthen anti-Communist forces there. Still more important, however, was the unannounced trip of Marshall's advisor, H. Freeman Matthews, to London.

Matthews flew over some days before Marshall left, carrying in his briefcase the whole American plan for the conference. He went after a hint had been received from Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that an opportunity would be welcomed to coordinate the American plan with the British. And the decision to send Matthews was taken with the thought in mind that some elements in the British government were leaning toward a new deal with Moscow as one way out of Britain's dilemma. Matthews trip was preventive.

May Require More

The plain truth is, moreover, that the kind of temporary coordination of policy provided by Matthew's visit may not be enough in the long run. The British are our necessary partners in the great task of bringing economic and political stability to the part of the world not under Soviet domination. With President Truman's message, we have begun to assume a much larger responsibility for this task. We have done so because the British were finding their burden too heavy. Each partner now needs to know more exactly what the other can be relied on to do. And that may ultimately mean the need for an understanding, formal or informal, between this country and Great Britain. This thought is already in the minds of the American policy makers.

Some of the compelling reasons for a hard-headed review of the Anglo-American team's common resources and obligations are apparent in a recent letter from London. No man is better qualified than the writer to know the inwardness of the British situation. In the midst of the coal crisis, he wrote as follows:

"At the moment every one is worrying most about fuel. But the fact is that there is practically no major element of our economy where we are not running on the most terrifyingly fine margins. Relatively small further deteriorations in timber, for instance, might make mincemeat of our construction programs and rail transport. Unless the U. S. can find a way to make more dollars available to the world (and particularly to Continental Europe, which is draining off a great many of our scarce dollars at present), we may soon be in a severe foreign exchange crisis. In food, again, the margins are so fine that serious breakdowns of supply could happen in almost any of the major foodstuffs.

The Big Mistake

"Economically, there is no question that our great mistake since VJ day has been in trying to get away from austerity too fast. We are in the dilemma that a tired and underfed people cannot be roused to further effort year after year without some incentive. Yet every major incentive we might offer is ruled out on some ground or other.

"I know you will be interested in the external aspects. There is no question, of course, that we are taking a share in world reconstruction fantastically beyond our ability to pay. We know, for instance, the reasons why we are having to bear the immense burden of feeding Germany in dollars we haven't got. But the fact is that no independent economist could find that it made sense for us to do so. The people will rise to this emergency, as they always do, with understanding and good humor. But it is difficult to see how we can play the part set for us without a considerably better understanding overseas of the extent to which we have had to strip ourselves during the war."

What It Means

The meaning of that letter is simple. The United States is sooner or later going to have to make other choices comparable to the Greek choice, and perhaps even less pleasing. If the British cannot carry the burden of half the expense in Germany, for example, we must either take up the slack or open western Germany to the Soviets. It is the same everywhere.

Moreover, in Britain herself, a great change has occurred. Only a year ago, the British were making overtures to our government to have the combined chiefs of staff placed on a permanent footing. This would have been tantamount to permanent, semi-formal alliance. The state, war and navy departments met the overtures with great coldness, from fear of offending the Soviets. Now, however, we fear British withdrawal from the partial Anglo-American military collaboration which was agreed on. The British left-wingers advocate this withdrawal as a gesture to Moscow. This is the reason why an understanding is needed now. For if we simply let all the critical situations like that in Germany go on weakening the British economy, they will bring on further crises in Britain.

The Cow and the Ladies' Lounge

If your milk doesn't seem as rich these days, don't blame it all on the dairyman.

• • •

It may be her living quarters.

• • •

Maybe Old Bess doesn't like her lay-out. A cow has ideas about her apartment.

• • •

And believe it or not, a cocktail lounge, so to speak, helps.

• • •

Sixteen farms have been conducting experiments with this lounge idea. They call it a "loafing barn." It is an extra "room" where the atmosphere is one of freedom and unrestraint.

• • •

Up to now cows, when not out at pasture, have been kept in a main barn, their necks in "stanchions." This kept them from moving around. (We never looked at a cow in one of these lockup devices without feeling that she wasn't being done right by. But farmers always assured us she loved it, and that without her neck in a stanchion, Bess would get the idea she was being neglected.)

• • •

But 16 dairy farms have installed "cow lounges" or "Loafing barns," into and out of which the cows may wander at will, staying in if they feel in the mood or playing around outside if the spirit moves them. In every case the cows have been happier and more cooperative.

• • •

We assume that it just did something to their characters that it increased their interest in life, broadened their outlook and made them feel better disposed toward the consumer. It seemed reasonable to think that if you took a cow out of her stanchions and gave her a little ladies' lounge life, she would reciprocate.

• • •

But the dairymen say we are wrong. With Bossie it is just a matter of roughage. Not the sort of roughage humans get in cocktail lounges. Food roughage, you chump!

• • •

The more roughage the better milk. It's that simple.

• • •

So take a closer look at that quart tomorrow morning and see if it is up to snuff. If not leave a note in the bottle reading: "What the heck is wrong with your old dairy? Open a lounge for them thar cows or I'll get my milk some other place. P. S. Try one with pink wall paper and Cupids."

• • •

The cow that's free
To come and go
Feels better and
She'll let you know.

When kept locked up
A girl is not
As happy as
Might be her lot.

A cow her stuff
Will better do
When she can roam
And ask "What's new?"

The "ladies lounge"
It's proven now
Does something for
Most any cow.

CAN YOU REMEMBER

Away back when you sang "My country tis of thee" and meant only the United States?

Rear Admiral "Bull" Halsey, recently retired, has been made a director of a telephone corporation. Maybe they misinterpreted him as saying he would go through "hello" and high water.

One for Margaret

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is one for the book—the book of clippings Margaret Truman will keep about her radio debut on the Sunday Evening Hour.

All the other clippings will discuss what she sang and how she sang, her training, her possibilities, her qualities, her lack of them. There should be one clipping about what it feels like to be scared.

This is about the awful time when IT is no longer something that's going to happen tomorrow, tonight, the next hour, but now . . . about the fateful instant that is rushing through space and time . . . closer, closer . . .

This is about the bursting heart, suffocation, cold perspiration that oozes in the palms of the hands and breaks out in gleaming droplets on the forehead and upper lip.

It is about the tremor of the hand that becomes a palsy, and the phastly swish of the scythe that cuts off a healthy human at the knees and leaves him clutching for support.

It is about the thick blur that comes over the eyes and leaves them sticky and half-sightless, or, what may be worse, clears quickly and reveals a sea of staring faces.

And about the certainty that the mouth is about to be opened and no sound will come out, nothing but a rasping croak of panic, like a fowl whose neck has been stretched over the block.

And about the cottony dryness of the tongue and throat that cannot be routed because the lungs are being pushed inexorably upward and with them all the apparatus of swallowing, hitherto taken for granted but now hopelessly out of order.

And finally it is about the precarious triumph of habit over the frailties of the flesh, the strange noise as of someone else doing badly what the victim of stage fright had aimed to do so well, the panic of uncertainty — can this go on?—the slow accretion of certainty and suddenly the realization that IT is over. The fateful instant has been survived.

We don't know how well or how badly Margaret Truman sang, but we know that no youngster ever sang to a more sympathetic audience. We've all been scared too, Margaret—and for only a fraction of your good reason, because we never made a radio debut before the biggest audience in history.

KENTONITES PROTEST GARBAGE DUMPING

Special to The Star

KENTON, March 19—Rats as thick as hickory nuts in a tree during high water," unpleasant odors, flies and bugs, were some of complaints made to the Kenton city council Monday night as some 89 Kenton residents protested to the dumping of garbage in an old river channel within the Kenton city limits.

The petition asked that the council take action on the nuisance. The channel, formerly a passage of the Scioto river until its dredging some years ago has been used by the city for a dump in an effort to have it filled.

City regulations prohibit the dumping of garbage but residents in the area claim that people surreptitiously dump camouflaged garbage in the area making it a breeding ground for pests.

Council President Wilbur North immediately appointed a committee of three to investigate the claims of the petitioners and to report conditions at the next meeting of the council.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "For the preaching of the Cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." I Corinthians 1:18.

* * *

THE Cross was Paul's message. He says when he came to Corinth he was determined to know nothing among the Corinthians "save Jesus Christ and Him crucified." In preaching the Cross he was preaching something he knew above everything else. To him the Cross is not only the symbol of the Christian Faith but it is its central fact. Christ, the living Christ is the center of Christianity and the very essence of the Gospel. When we speak of the Cross, in which we glory, we do not mean a cross of wood or a cross of gold, we mean the Cross of Christ.

"We preach Christ crucified, Christ on His Cross; not a Cross without the Christ and not the Christ without the Cross." Christ is the Supreme Personality. One stands in silence in His sublime and holy presence. The suffering Son of Man is the solution of the world's problems. If the world is explained by Christ on His Cross then its meaning, its origin, its goal is the spirit of sacrifice and the service of love.

Pastor, Prospect Street Methodist Church.

KENTON, March 19 — Ten Hardin county schools lost state aid in their lunch program here Monday according to B. W. Cotterman, county superintendent of schools. Mr. Cotterman said that letters to the effect that state aid would be discontinued because of lack of funds were received by county schools last week.

The funds he stated are expected to be forthcoming again next year.

CONVICTED DOCTOR RELEASED ON BOND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 19—Dr. Lee B. Warren, convicted of performing an illegal operation on a 22-year-old Lorain woman, was free today on $10,000 bond pending an appeal by defense counsel Milton Firestone of the 66-year-old physician's conviction.

Convicted by a jury of seven women and five men after three hours and 35 minutes of deliberation, Dr. Warren was sentenced yesterday to one to seven years in prison by Common Pleas Judge Stanley L. Orr, who asserted the defendant was a "disgrace to an honorable profession."

Judge Orr overruled an immediate motion for a new trial by defense attorneys Firestone and Stephen M. Young, but set Dr. Warren's bond at $10,000 after the defendant's counsel filed a notice of intention to appeal the verdict.

Three women from Lorain, Elyria and Cleveland testified in the four-day trial that Dr. Warren, a resident of Lorain who maintains an office in Cleveland, had performed illegal operations on them at his local office. Dr. Warren was acquitted by the jury on another count of performing an abortion on a 15-year-old Elyria girl.

The defendant admitted he had treated the women, but denied he had aborted them. He also admitted he had served a term at San Quentin prison for larceny, but denied ever performing an abortion during 28 years of medical practice.

Social Affairs

THE First Presbyterian church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Eleanor Browne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Floyd G Browne of 413 East Church street, and Robert G. Stafford Sunday afternoon. The couple repeated the double ring ceremony read by the pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler at 4:30 o'clock. Palms banked the altar to form a background for the two large baskets filled with white gladioli and tall seven-branch candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Harry T. Williams.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was costumed in a gown of lace and faille and her veil of bridal illusion was caught at either side with orange blossoms The top of the bodice and the long sleeves, ending in points at the hands, were of lace and a ruffle of matching lace accented the square neckline. The skirt extended into a deep train. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom

Preceding the bride to the altar was Miss Dorothy Anne Davis of Columbus, who was the maid of honor and her only attendant. She wore a gown of aqua silk marquisette and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and carnations showered with pink ribbon The flowers in her hair matched those in her bouquet.

Serving as best man for Mr Stafford, who is the son of Mr and Mrs C W. Stafford of 304 Carner avenue, was Robert L Putnam of Mason, O, and ushers were the bride's brothers, Marshall and Stuart Browne of Marion, and her cousins Robert and Charles McNeal of Mansfield

The organ music included 'Serenade" Toselli, "I Love Thee," Grieg, "Intermezzo," Provost, "There Alone," Herbert, "Liebestraum,' Liszt, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Friml, "Wedding Bells," Truette "Because," D'Hardelot, "I Love You Truly," Bond, "Always," Berlin, "Estrellita" Ponce and the traditional wedding marches.

The reception was held at the Marion Country club, where the wedding party received in front of the fireplace The mantel was decorated with huckleberry foliage and at either side were palms and tall baskets filled with white stocks, gladioli and greenery

The bride's mother received in a black costume accented at the waistline with a design in aqua, and her flower hat was in shades of pink roses The bridegroom's mother wore a grey costume with a fuchsia hat and gloves. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

Army Plane Sights Last Flare from Small Boat Adrift in Gulf.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 19—Two sun-blackened Virginians were recovering from exposure and near-starvation today after being adrift 11 days in a small power boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

The two men, W. Horace Blanchard, 52, of Newport News and Charles King, 18 of Hampton, were able to talk of their dramatic rescue yesterday by an Army amphibian only a few hours before a search which covered 50,000 square miles of gulf waters was scheduled to end.

They told of long hours of hunger and cold as they tossed about in their 22-foot cabin cruiser, and of using their last flare in a desperate gamble to attract any Army search plane from MacDill field.

The plane saw the flare and radioed the amphibian which effected the rescue.

"I guess we've been lucky," Blanchard said, lying on a hospital bed at MacDill field. "The only things that saved us were the Lord, a stout boat and the Army Air Forces.

"We had twelve signal flares when we started, but we had fired all but one. We really prayed when I fired that last one. When the big Army plane dipped its wings and turned towards us I knew we were saved."

"We cast off from the big ship, the yacht Rhojan II," King related, "about daybreak on Saturday morning, March 8, because it was leaking and the captain thought we were about 20 miles from shore. The little boat had been previously damaged both in the bow and stern.

Capt. James Blanchard, 38, of Newport News, brother of Horace, remained alone aboard the yacht and kept it afloat by bailing continuously with a bucket for seven days before being towed to Key West by a Navy tug Sunday.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19 — Fourteen-year-old Richard Imel was being held today for investigation after police said he killed his stepmother last night with a shotgun because she had been "picking on me."

Detective Michael Kavanaugh said the boy, a high school freshman, told him he fired a blast into the chest of his stepmother, Mrs. Lillian Imel, 36, while she begged:

"Put that gun down, Richard. No, I beg you, Richard, no."

The boys said his stepmother accused him of being out with girls when he should have been home eating his dinner. The boy said he had been playing baseball, instead.

Leo arrived here from the Canal Zone last night, brushed aside all questions from newsmen with repeated "no, no, no's," but made little or no effort to avoid cameramen.

Miss Day obtained a Mexican divorce from airport executive J. Ray Hendricks soon after receiving an interlocutory degree here. She then married Durocher in El Paso, Tex.

BILL PROPOSES LABOR COURTS

Senate Measure Would Turn Disputes Over to New Judicial Body.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and Smith (R-NJ) today introduced a bill to create a system of federal labor relations courts with jurisdiction over "a large majority" of labor-management disputes.

The courts would have the right to issue injunctions in labor cases, a course now forbidden by the Norris-LaGuardia act in disputes involving private industry.

They would have jurisdiction to interpret collective bargaining contracts and to review actions of the administrators of the national labor relations (Wagner) act, the fair labor standards (wage-hour) act and the railway labor act.

Ferguson told the senate "we are in a state of near-anarchy" when it comes to industrial disputes and the time has come to subject them to "the legal discipline of a civilized society."

Smith declared the bill would cover "at least three fourths" of such cases and could lead to "the ultimate settlement of all labor-management disputes on the basis of what is right and just."

The Smith-Ferguson proposal was offered in the senate only a few hours after Rep. Landis (R-Ind) told reporters there is a 50-50 chance the house labor committee may suggest revision of the Norris-LaGuardia act as a means of combatting strikes which affect the national welfare.

Landis, a member of the committee, said members may recommend an amendment which would permit the government to obtain injunctions in cases where walkouts against private business—such as coal mines or transportation—would involve the national safety or health.

Adoption of Nurses' Pay Raise Blocked at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, March 19—An ordinance to provide raises for employes of the Galion City hospital had its first reading at a meeting of city council Tuesday but a motion to suspend the rules and give the ordinance its second and third readings lost by a vote of 4 to 2. Councilmen Oscar Renach and William Kunkel voted against the motion, while chairman of the finance committee, Councilman Richard Ganshorn, was not present. The ordinance would provide for $40 a month raises for about five top employes, while $20 raises are provided for the remaining employes. Approximately 28 employes would be affected by the ordinance.

Four nurses were present to hear the reading of the ordinance, and expected its passage, a spokesman for the nurses said. Miss Naomi Weber, superintendent of the hospital, stated the nurses will not strike, but resignations of the nurses which are now ready, will be effective in two weeks if the ordinance is not passed at that time.

Girl's Alleged Kidnaper Jailed on Check Count

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19 — Old charges of issuing worthless checks put Robert H. Hemming, 42, in Ohio penitentiary today, but Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said a kidnaping charge against Hemming in the New Year's day disappearance of an Ohio State co-ed would be "held in abeyance."

Hemming was arrested in Cleveland after a two-day trip with Mary Virginia Kimberly, daughter of an Ohio State professor. The girl returned by train alone and unharmed to her suburban Upper Arlington home.

The six to 18-year sentence Hemming began today, his fifth imprisonment, came after he pleaded guilty to six counts of issuing worthless checks in 1939 and 1946.

3RD TRIAL BEGINS IN LIMA MAN'S SLAYING

By The Associated Press

GREENUP, Ky., March 19—John D. Toncray fought today against a third conviction for the seven-year-old slaying of John D. Dale, Lima, patent medicine vendor.

Convicted twice previously in Vanceburg, the Lewis county merchant won his third trial after the court of appeals ordered the verdicts set aside and the case transferred here.

Toncray's attorney Bruce H. Grannis of Flemingsburg summed up the story of the defense in his opening statements.

He said that Dale and his wife traveling in a trailer, parked on the school ground at Tollsboro, near Vanceburg, in August, 1940 and that Dale entertained a crowd for a time with ventriloquism before offering his wares for sale.

During the course of his remarks, Grannis said, Dale asked his wife to bring out the "medical book," adding that "this book is to me what the Bible is to a Christian."

Grannis quoted Toncray as replying: "No, brother, I'll take the Bible for mine."

Later Toncray closed his store, Grannis said, and decided to go to the Dales and apologize.

Dale was shot three times after ordering Toncray off the school grounds, Grannis concluded.

SPRINGFIELD PUBLISHER INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Examiner Chief Charged with Circulating Obscenities.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 19—Indictments have been returned charging Grover W. Fleming, publisher of the American Examiner, with circulating obscene literature, publishing libelous statements with intent to depress the value of corporate securities.

The indictments resulted from a grand jury investigation which followed Fleming's arrest recently on charges of having circulated obscene literature. Bound over to the grand jury under $4,000 bail by municipal court, Fleming is free at the present time.

These indictments accused Fleming of having "wilfully and knowingly" circulated a "false and untrue report" about the Shawnee Hotel of Springfield; that he had published "false and malicious statements" about Robert Ireland, former Springfield civil service commission chairman, and Phillip J. Lobeck, city garbage truck driver.

BRITAIN JOINS U. S. IN VIEW OF POTSDAM PACT

Shares Belief It Supercedes Yalta Big 3 Agreements.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 19—A British foreign office spokesman said today Britain "shared the U. S. view" that the Big Three Potsdam agreement superceded all other major power agreements with regard to German reparations.

The spokesman made the statement after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's statement to the council of foreign ministers that the Big Three had concluded an agreement at Yalta, the text of which had been secret heretofore, under which German reparations were to be collected from post-war current production.

Tass, official Russian news agency, in a verbatim report of Molotov's statement, said the Yalta agreement was disclosed in pressing the Russian claim for $10,000,000,000 reparations from Germany, part of it from current production.

10 OHIO TEACHERS TO END ONE-DAY STRIKE

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 19—The one-day walkout of 19 teachers at Petersburg High school in Mahoning county's Springfield Township system was scheduled to end today pending a board of education hearing on a dispute involving discipline of a 14-year-old student.

A spokesman for the teachers, who left their jobs yesterday in a walkout which led to closing of three township schools, said last night the instructors would return to their desks "in the interest of the public welfare of Springfield township."

Some 475 students at Petersburgh, New Middleton and New Springfield schools enjoyed a holiday following the climax of events started last Friday with suspension for three weeks and a decree of probation for the rest of the school year on Rober Warner, Petersburgh sophomore.

Asserting the students discipline was too mild and claiming the suspension should have been for a full year, the Petersburgh instructors left their jobs. The youth was accused of striking a teacher while being reprimanded.

Officials operating a school bus line said they could not provide service for only two schools and the New Middletown and New Springfield institutions were shut down.

Russia Called Aggressor Nation in Galion Talk

Special to The Star

GALION, March 19—"Russia is just as much an aggressor nation today as was Germany in the late 1930s," warned Martin V. Coffey, national executive committeeman and past national vice commander of the American Legion, at a public meeting at Senior High school auditorium, Tuesday night. His appearance in Galion was sponsored jointly by Scarbrough Post, No. 243, the American Legion, and the Galion Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

Speaking on "Americanism," Coffey declared "The first World War brought a brood of problems, not the least of which was Communism, Fascism and Nazism. Conflicts about and within these power systems plunged us into World War II. Today, Communism has taken on an entirely new significance. For today, whole nations have adopted the Communists theory of government. Communism is an organized and even fanatical world movement. It holds that capitalism must die, if necessary, in the throes of bloody revolution."

MARKET EXTENDS RECOVERY MOVE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—The stock market extended its recovery move today in another slow session.

Industrials proved better performers although most price changes were limited to fractions.

Improvement in most sections of the list was well maintained near the fourth hour.

Bidding was attributed largely to professionals seeking profits on a technical comeback following recent declines.

Prominent in the upturn were Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Goodyear, Goodrich, Eastern Air Lines, North American, American Water Works, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Philip Morris (on an extra dividend declaration), Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Railway, Allied Chemical and International Harvester.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—The New York Central railroad, long eyed by Robert R. Young as a likely link for his hoped for Atlantic-to-Pacific rail system, has invited him to become a director.

Gustav Metzman, president of the New York Central, announced last night that both Young, chairman of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co., and Robert J. Bowman, its president, had been asked to join the board, subject to necessary authorization by the interstate commerce commission.

Young previously had announced that he would control the New York Central "with 10 shares of stock" because of his backing other stockholders.

Everyone's Fascist To Them, Russians Told

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 19 — Gen. Mark Clark threw back at the Russian representative at the meeting of the council of foreign ministers deputies today Soviet press attacks on John Foster Dulles, advisor to Secretary Marshall, whom Moscow newspapers had called a "Fascist."

Clark argued in effect that the Russians were likely to call almost anybody a Fascist and that this was one reason why the United States opposed that term and wished to use the word "Nazi" in the Austrian peace term.

Wyandot Co. Pastor Given New Automobile

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 19—Delivered yesterday to Pastor and Mrs. J. J. Seim, at their home in Upper Sandusky, was a new automobile, a gift from the congregations of Bethany and North Salem, the two rural Lutheran churches near here served by Pastor Seim.

Title to the car was turned over to Rev. Seim by a committee representing the membership of the churches with an expression of appreciation for his many years of cheerful and faithful service.

The pastor termed the gift an "overwhelming surprise" and added it was particularly timely since he needed to replace his old car in his work. He now has two sons at Capital university in Columbus preparing for the ministry.

GERMANY -

of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia seem to be souring.

The two western ministers particularly resented Soviet repetition of charges against British-American conduct in Germany, which they consider to have been long since disproved.

A clash last night, when Marshall and Bevin denounced a Molotov charge that the western nations had got $10,000,000,000 in German patent reparations, was the latest in an accumulating series of incidents demonstrating the erosion of the easy atmosphere of the first few council sessions.

All-or-Nothing Policy

The Americans are pursuing an all-or-nothing policy so far as a current German agreement is concerned, but diplomatic observers say the Russians' approach to the problem seems difficult from their own point of view.

If Germany remains split, these observers said, Russia stands to get little or no reparations from the western zones, but if the country is unified on the basis of a broad, general settlement, they will have to give up their demand for greatly extended reparations from current production and agree to share in the German deficit along with the western powers.

Developments inside the meeting room contrasted strongly with the festive air of the council of foreign ministers' first big social event last night, when Molotov entertained the other three ministers and their chief advisers at a dinner and reception. The reception guests included hundreds of other diplomats here for the council meetings and and in the regular dipomatic corps.

PACIFIC LOOP TEAMS SCALP TRIBESMEN

Indians Agree West Coast Is Ready for Major Rating.

By The Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 19—The Pacific Coast league's recent request for classification as a third major loop probably wouldn't elicit any objections from members of the Cleveland Indians.

The hard-pressed Tribesmen have tangled in two exhibition games with Pacific Coast league clubs and have come out on the short end of the score each time. They'll try again for a win today against another Pacific Coast representative, Los Angeles.

Portland's Beavers, who wound up in eighth place last year, edged the Tribesmen 10 to 9 in a 10-inning affair at Riverside yesterday. It was the Indians' sixth straight loss.

The Tribe turned loose a fifth barrage including a circuit smash by Les Fleming with the bases loaded, but failed to hold an 8 to 1 lead.

Bob Lemon was the first Cleveland hurler and gave one run in six innings. However, Don Black and Lyman Linde failed to hold the Beavers in check.

Bob Kuzava and Ray Poat will handle the Cleveland pitching chores today against Los Angeles.

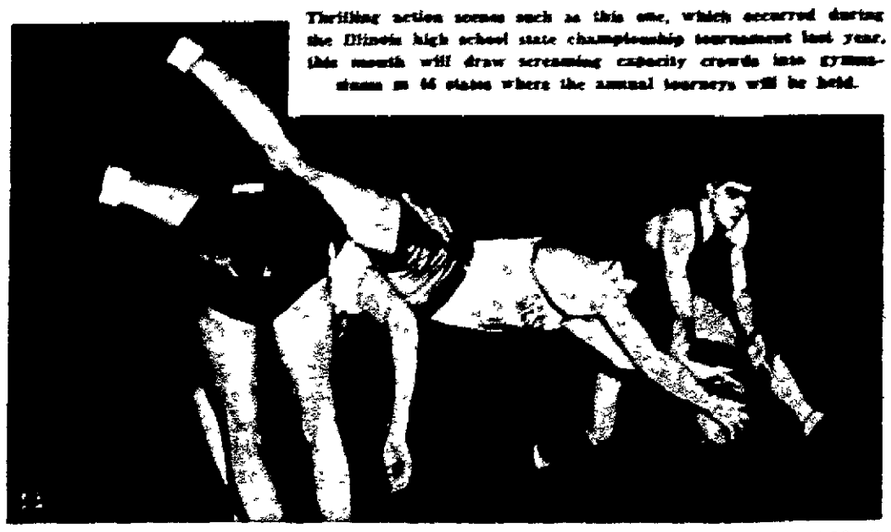
State Cage Tourney Is Big Business



Thrilling action scenes such as this one, which occurred during the Illinois high school state championship tournament last year, this month will draw screaming capacity crowds into gymnasiums in 66 states where the annual tourneys will be held.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 12—A few facts and figures on Ohio's high school championship cage classic which starts tomorrow at the state fairgrounds coliseum:

Big business—that's what the annual basketball barrage is getting to be, insofar as the Ohio High School Athletic association is concerned.

Gate receipts, through the county, sectional, district, regional and state events run into hundreds of thousands of dollars with close to a million customers sitting in on the festivities, and the OHSAA cutting for itself quite a slice of action.

Box Office Take Mounts

Back in 1942 the state association took $16,378.56 out of the tournament till. In 1943 its cut dropped to $17,682.43. The following year, 1944 gave the governing body $24,861.66.

Then things really started humming and in 1945 the association delved in for $31,286.53—a figure which placed beside the 1946 "cut" of $46,135.86. The 1947 gate looks like another bell-ringer, and the association may slip over $56,000 for the first time.

For the last five years the average association take has been $27,269.01—most of which goes to finance the groups far-flung activities.

County Grand Slam Possible

It has never happened in the 24 years of the state cage event, but there's a chance the quarter-century of play will wind up with two teams from the same county copping the championship cup.

The two are class B Columbiana beaten only once in 24 starts, and East Liverpool, which has lost three of 25 in class A. Both are from Columbiana county where basketball—and football—are fast, rugged and convincing.

The draw may be a big factor in the final analysis especially in class A. The Middies of Middletown, gunning for their third title in four years, are crackerjack with considerable anticipation, however, is the widespread and apparently accurate report that the commissioner is good and sore at certain individuals connected with the game and that he is all set ready to crack down and establish his authority.

MacPhail contends that Rickey and Durocher have injured the Yankees, and, presumably no game by stating for publication that a professional gambler sat in his MacPhail's private box during a game at Havana. Harold Parrott, road secretary of the Dodgers, comes into the picture because it is well known he writes newspaper articles under Durocher's name.

Center Jack Kuck (he's six feet four), forwards Roger Settlage (six feet two) and Dick DuBois (six feet one), and guard Lee Stienecker (five feet 11) are aced with influenza.

Coach Roger Stauffer of the Auglaize county crew was uncertain whether the quartet would get into the game.

BASEBALL FIREWORKS DUE TO POP MONDAY

MacPhail, Rickey To Air Tiff in Chandler's Office.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 19 — Despite Commissioner A. B. Chandler's somewhat mild grant declaration here that he isn't "presiding anybody" in the baseball hearing scheduled Monday at Sarasota, word has gotten around the training camp circuit that it is likely to set off a major fireworks display.

With two such flamboyant performers as Presidents Larry MacPhail of the Yankees and Branch Rickey of the Dodgers appearing as the chief antagonists it could not help developing fireworks. MacPhail has accused Rickey and his associates, including Manager Leo Durocher, of deforming the New York club.

What has the baseball world awaiting the event with considerable anticipation, however, is the widespread and apparently accurate report that the commissioner is good and sore at certain individuals connected with the game and that he is all set ready to crack down and establish his authority.

MacPhail contends that Rickey and Durocher have injured the Yankees, and, presumably no game by stating for publication that a professional gambler sat in his MacPhail's private box during a game at Havana. Harold Parrott, road secretary of the Dodgers, comes into the picture because it is well known he writes newspaper articles under Durocher's name.

Rookie Cincinnati Hurler May Make Team 1st Year

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 19—Many observers here believe Ken Peterson, the Cincinnati Reds' 20-year-old rookie southpaw, has better than a 50-50 chance to make the grade as a major leaguer in his first full season of professional baseball.

The youngster from Goshen, Utah, was the winning pitcher yesterday as the Reds downed the Washington Senators 8-4, to snap a two-game losing streak in the grapefruit circuit.

Although he was nicked for three hits and three runs—one of the latter unearned—scouts commented on his overall "stuff," control and coolness under fire. Several major-leaguers have labeled him the most promising young pitcher in the Florida camps this spring.

Peterson had pitched only one inning of organized ball when he came here this spring. He pitched three Cincinnati opponents in order back in 1944, then was tossed off to the army to become the sensation of a service team in Manila.

Actually, the Reds gave Peterson victory over the Senators on a five-run outburst in the ninth. Grady Hatton, who had no major-league experience last year when he joined the team and proceeded to nail down the third base job, supplied the big punch with a three-run triple.

The 24-year-old hot corner guardian, who jumped directly from the Reds last spring following his release from the service, drove in 69 runs in 116 games during his 1946 campaign, his first in organized baseball.

Hatton fractured his right ankle cap late in August when he ran against a brick wall attempting a shoe-string catch while spiking a young autograph hunter who got in his path on the runway leading from the dressing room to the playing field. He was out for the rest of the campaign.

Congress Gets Report Card

New Digest of Congressional Record Deflates Legislative Windbag.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19 — Congress has its first report card. It's the daily digest of the Congressional Record, a brand new feature.

The digest punctures the congressional windbag, and attempts to deflate an entire day of Capitol Hill activity to five minutes' reading. A neat trick, if it can do it.

There also is a table showing just what congress has done.

It has re-organized. It also has passed 18 laws.

In doing this, it has filled 3,262 pages of the Congressional Record.

The senators have been the talkingest. They have had 32 sessions, accounting for 1,137 pages of fine print.

The house may be noisier than the more or less sedate senate, but the representatives shut up sooner. They have had 37 sessions, and have filled 1,035 pages

Another 1,090 pages have gone into the appendix. This may contain anything from an editorial on the atom bomb to a spirited defense of mother love

So far, a bill has had only about one chance in 200 of becoming a law.

A total of 3,745 bills have been introduced, or approximately seven bills for each congressman

The digest also shows that it's rough trying to be a postmaster these days The box score:

Postmasters nominated	590
Number withdrawn	5
Still unconfirmed	585

Maybe you wonder why this Republican congress is so lax with its postmastering.

Well, here's a clue As nearly as can be determined, 585 of these unconfirmed postmasters are Democrats.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

AGAIN the shadow of a fantastic conjecture touched me, this time with a nuance of fear in it What was behind this feverish anxiety of Mary's to begin study of the lines of my play manuscript when she knew that its production was months away?

I was conscious that Dicky had shot a flashing glance at me, and wondered if he were thinking along the same lines that I was But I knew that we would have no opportunity to compare notes, and besides our immediate task loomed large before me We must get Mary away from my study, and into bed, before Noel arrived, demanding to see her.

Dicky Did Not Know

I realized that Dicky did not know yet of Philip's summoning of his son to the Lansfield. He had not heard Olina's message In some way, I must acquaint him with that news, for I was depending upon Dicky to handle Noel if he should develop one of his moods. I did not expect Noel to go into one of the "royal rages" of the Transvanian dynasty, but it was quite conceivable that he would stand upon his rights as Mary's husband and the head of his family, and demand that Mary come home to her own apartment and be cared for there.

But with Mary safely in bed under my care, with Dr. Twitchell in attendance, and above all with Dicky, tactful or truculent or masterful, as Noel's mood might demand, managing Mary's temperamental husband, I could draw one breath of relief, at any rate, no matter how many problems presented themselves afterward.

I smiled at Dicky's tempestuous niece indulgently.

"Go ahead! Vamp Dr. Twitchell with your best wiles," I told her "But it's only fair to tell you that he has been charmed by experts"

"I'll raise 'em and call 'em," Mary said confidently, but I wondered if I imagined that her eyes were more feverish.

Dicky threw open the door, and pointed a truculent finger at us.

"So help me, Allah," he said, "if you two dames continue this high-powered chatter, I'm going to stuff the words down your throats and then drag you out of here. Come on! Let's get going!"

Took Mary's Arm

I took Mary's arm, and she walked meekly with me to the door. We went down the hall to our living apartment, and I blessed the foresight which had made me ask for an emergency supply of linen

"Sit down here in the living room and show off some of your best humor to your niece," I told my husband "But, remember, if a knock comes on the door before I get you bed ready, Mary, you are to dash through that door"—I pointed to the one I meant—"and, Dicky, you are to swear that Mary's in bed, and that she can see no one until after Dr Twitchell has seen her."

I rushed through the door to the bedroom and bath—my own—which I had chosen for Mary, and, working at top speed, made up the bed with fresh linen, and turned it down ready for occupancy. Then I put up fresh towels in the bathroom and went back into the sitting room.

"Come on now, darling," I said, and she went with me into the bedroom.

Started Nervously

"Where are your bags?" I asked, and she started nervously

"What a goon I am!" she explained. "They're still at the airport! I rushed away and flagged a taxi with only one thought, to get here to you. I never gave even a mental nod to my luggage"

"Never mind," I said serenely. "Give me your tickets after awhile, and we'll send for them In the meantime, I'll give you some things of mine."

I took from my bureau a filmy nightdress, a bathrobe and a pair of slippers

"Get into this gown, and get into bed at once," I told her "No"—as she started to speak—"no bath until after Dr Twitchell has seen you! Now, I'll leave you to yourself for a minute or two I want to speak to your uncle But I want to see you in bed when I get back"
